

FACULTY MEETING
MARCH 31, 2006

AP CREDITS

MOTION: The Committee on Educational Policy and Planning moves that the faculty adopt the following limits on Advanced Placement (AP), British General Certificate (BGC), and International Baccalaureate (IB) credits: (1) a student may count no more than sixteen AP, BGC, and/or IB credits towards graduation and (2) no AP, BGC, or IB exam will count for more than four credits.

RATIONALE: The current policy allows students to count unlimited AP, BGC, and IB credits towards graduation. It also stipulates that the College will “grant up to six semester hours of credit toward graduation to those achieving a grade of 4 or 5 on an Advanced Placement Test...” After studying both the institutional impact of maintaining the present practice and the national trends among colleges and universities, CEPP believes it is time to modify the policy, especi
