

FACULTY MEETING

October 2, 2020

In response to the discussion at the September Faculty Meeting, CEPP proposes to offer the following amendment to its motion (highlighted in blue):

Motion: The Committee on Educational Policies and Planning (CEPP) moves that Student Ratings and Feedback surveys (i.e., all-college quantitative forms and departmental long forms) be administered online in Fall 2020, and, furthermore, that the results of these Student Ratings and Feedback forms be provided not only to instructors but also to department chairs and program directors, and, when appropriate, ATC, PC, and the college administration.

Rationale: Student Ratings and Feedback were suspended for the Spring 2020 semester following the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic and online learning at the college. CEPP was tasked to make a recommendation regarding the administration and use of Student Ratings and Feedback surveys in Fall 2020. After lengthy discussion within the committee after having received input from ATC and PC, as well as feedback from the faculty-only meeting a few weeks ago, CEPP has concluded that students should have the opportunity to provide ratings and feedback on their courses this semester and that it is important for instructors to receive those ratings and feedback. CEPP recognizes the concerns of many faculty members that the unusual circumstances of this semester are placing exceptional demands on them as they teach and acknowledges concern with how student ratings and feedback may be impacted by these circumstances. At the same time, CEPP considers that the results of student ratings and feedback should be shared with those charged with evaluating faculty members. However, CEPP ultimately recommends that ATC, PC, department chairs and program directors, as well as the college administration take the unprecedented circumstances of Fall 2020 into consideration when interpreting the results of the Student Ratings and Feedback surveys.

Ultimately, CEPP believes that the final authority to make decisions about the administration of Student Ratings and Feedback forms this semester should lie with the Faculty as a whole. To that end, CEPP is bringing this motion before the faculty for its consideration. The motion will be presented in ~~two~~ four parts (with each part to be voted on separately):

- 1) and the college
- 2) That Student Ratings surveys (i.e., all-college quantitative forms) be administered online in Fall 2020 and the results made available to instructors;
- 3) That Student Feedback surveys (i.e., departmental long forms) be administered online in Fall 2020 and the results made available to instructors;
- 4) that the results of Student Feedback surveys be made available to department chairs and program directors and, when appropriate, ATC, PC, and the college administration.
