

Kate Donovan '01. M.P.A. from Columbia University, School of International & Public Affairs, Program in Environmental Science and Policy in 2004. Kate works as a solicitor/legislation officer for the Victorian Department of Environment and Primary Industries, Australia She has worked as an environmental policy analyst for a number of Federal agencies.

Jenna Ringleheim '02. MA from Tufts in 2006 in Urban and Environmental Policy and Planning, MBA from Pinchot in 2013 in Sustainable Business. Jenna is Deputy Director of the Environmental Leadership Program (ELP), a network for over 800 of the country's top emerging environmental and social change leaders. She previously worked as their National Programs Director.

Peter Olmsted '03 Masters of Energy and Environmental Policy, Energy Policy and Administration from the University of Delaware in 2010 Peter was the East Coast Regional Director for the Vote Solar Initiative and then the Outreach Advisor for the NY State Department of Public Service. He currently works as the Manager of Strategic Engagement for the NYS Department of Public Service.

Seth Shonkoff '03. Masters of Public Health from UC Berkeley in 2008, Ph.D. in Environmental Science, Policy, and Management from UC Berkeley in 2012. Seth works as the Executive Director of PSE Healthy Energy, a non-profit energy science and policy research institute that supplies scientific and technical information and resources on the public health, environmental, and climate dimensions of energy production and use.

Adam Streiffer '03. Masters of Public Health and Environmental Health from Tulane University in 2008. Adam interned at the National Park Service and the USGS