

1. document. For example, some "zero tolerance" policy on plagiarism that results in a failing grade regardless of the student's intent. Students should be alerted to the existence of such a policy before it is applied.

When investigating a case of student academic dishonesty, consult the Definitions and Procedures document. Review the evidence carefully, and then consult with the Associate Dean of the College for student academic affairs.

8. You may prefer to request an Administrative Hearing Board review of the case. Note that a student who denies their guilt may also request a hearing. No action of the Board may set aside or modify a